Even more politically incorrect than the rest of the series (which my son loves); plenty of potty type language, making fun of girls and some real mean behavior on the part of A.J. But also the book that made my 7 year old laugh so hard he had tears coming down his cheeks. If you, like me, have a kid who can separate fiction from reality, what more can you ask for?

Oh, Valentine, We've Lost Our Minds! is the perfect book to share with students near Valentine's Day or any day. A.J. and all the other boys in class are revolted at hearing about that disgusting L-word being brought up yet again. You guessed it L-O-V-E love and all of the yucky sentimental feelings that go along with it; at least there is chocolate! Then the most exciting thing in the history of the universe happens, Pierre, a foreign exchange student, saunters into the room with his weird name, stinky cheeses, tales of frog and snail hors d'oeuvres, and in the process turns all the girls into panting idiots. The boys have to do something! The meanest yet funniest prank ever pulled at Elle Mentary School is about to take place and you get to read about it live and in person!

Halfway through reading this with my 7 year old and I think I'm going to toss it out. AJ is immature and obnoxious and while I get that it's SUPPOSED to be funny, it isn't. I do not want my son thinking AJ's treatment of others is OK on any level, even in a story. This is our first Weird School story - we obviously won't explore any of the others. I would toss this book in the recycle bin, but might consider donating it to the thrift store if it will keep someone from spending any money supporting this awful author.

Another great book by Dan Gutman. He never disappoints, even for my teenage son!

I think was one of the best weird schools ever. however ms lane is a pane and mr. cooper is super are as good so I rated this book four stars.

My kids love this series of books! My kiddo was having a hard time finding a series of books they liked to read and this fit the bill!

This is the first chapter book my 6 year old has read. He loves it! We are onto the next book (we are a fan of the holiday books).
